Electronic Fisher Scientific Catalogs

Punchout vs. Hosted

If you're looking for ways to increase efficiency, decrease operating costs and optimize in-house resources, take advantage of Fisher Scientific's ability to provide you with electronic product catalogs. Both punchout and hosted catalogs allow placement and processing of orders that meet your procurement objectives.

Choosing the right option can make all the difference in your organisation's efficiency, costs and productivity.

Which is better for you?

A PUNCHOUT is a direct and dynamic link to the Fisher Scientific e-commerce website, myfisherstore.com. The site provides robust content to the purchasing community, as well as an enhanced shopping experience resulting in reduced customer support costs.

Content is expanded and updated regularly so that you can view:

- Detailed product descriptions
- Supplemental product information
- Product availability
- Customer-specific information through custom home pages
- Account information
- Customised pricing just for you with price validity date (if required)
- Customised product description
- Customised product categories based on your needs

A HOSTED CATALOG is a product compilation updated quarterly, semiannually or annually. This option provides a convenient electronic ordering capability, but with infrequent updating and space constraints.

Your view is limited to:

- Partial product descriptions
- Intermittent product updates, additions and deletions

Hosted catalog also contributes to:

- Delayed access to new products in portfolio
- The need for customer resources to update and audit

Contact your Fisher Scientific Sales Representative to determine the best catalog for your needs.
